What do we do?

Most companies looking to remove or replace existing office furniture usually have just three options: they can donate it to charity, put it in temporary storage, or try and sell it themselves. Whatever the choice, it can easily become a time-consuming process for you and your people that takes time and energy away from more important business priorities. Storr's buy back program takes the hassle out of furniture disposal. You not only enjoy a fair price for office furniture that's no longer needed. You also keep your office running smoothly without taking on additional administrative burdens.

How we do it.

Storr makes disposing of unwanted office furniture easy. Our purchasing staff can come in, take inventory of product scheduled for disposal and offer you a fair price usually within twenty-four hours or less. At a time that's convenient for you, we'll collect your unwanted furniture and leave your office and your people ready to focus on what's really important!

Why do you need it?

At Storr, we're committed to making your priorities our priorities. And if you're looking to avoid spending valuable time and energy on non-essential activities, our furniture buy back program can help. We can take unwanted product off your hands with a minimum of fuss and help you recover the remaining value of your investment. For a trouble-free solution to furniture disposal and a fair price for used product, call on Storr today!
