Adept is a new and simpler way to divide space in the office.

Slender yet surprisingly strong, Adept dividers provide privacy, planning freedom, and design options, while leaving the heavy lifting of support and cabling to the spine wall. Adept works with Allsteel systems furniture, both structurally and aesthetically, and includes its own desking and storage components, making it easier than ever to plan, set up, and reconfigure work areas that get the job done.

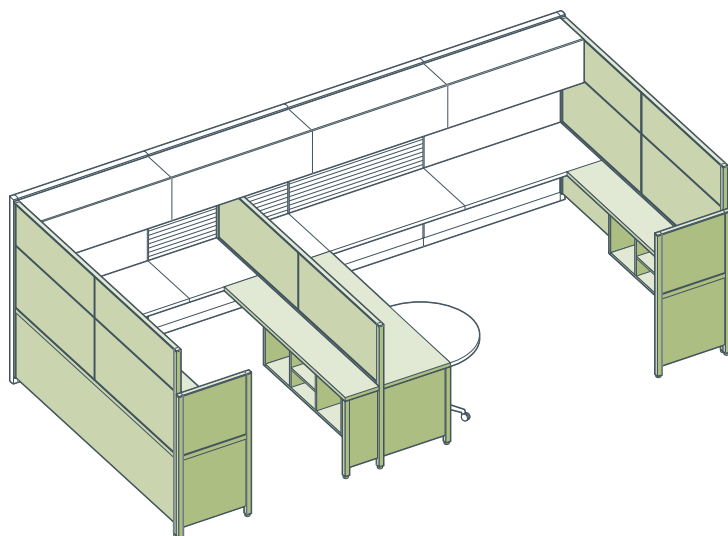

Plan with connectors...

Place Adept at connections on the spine wall, and you can use full-height dividers as well as utilize any Allsteel worksurface, including curvilinear shapes like reefs and coves, to create an expansive workspace.

...or go off-module.

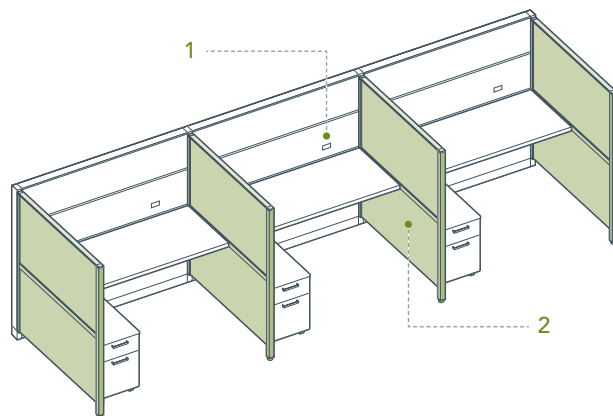

Adept desking units and supports can be located and easily moved anywhere along the spine wall to create off-module work areas of any size.

Green designates Adept dividers, desking, and storage products.

Provide more light for more productivity.

1. Terrace 3.4 as the spine brings maximum plug-in capacity right to the desktop where you need it most.
2. Dividers are translucent above to increase the flow of natural light and laminate below to ensure modesty.

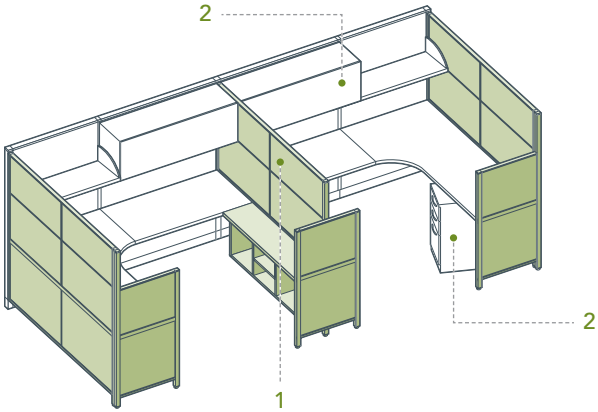

Adept's quick connection is a smart design that makes installation simple and future changes easy to manage.

Adept storage towers on the ends provide worksurface support, ample storage, and efficient division of space.

1. Shared worksurfaces between offices let people work back-to-back, side-by-side, or face-to-face.
2. A seated-height divider ensures privacy for activities that require concentration, while providing an opportunity for people to come together.

Make every place a better space.

Adept can be used throughout the office to create a fresh, light-scale attitude. Start with any Allsteel system as the spine, and use Adept dividers and components to create hoteling spaces, manager stations, and even teaming areas. Adept actually enhances systems furniture by letting each part do what it does best.

Show some flexibility.

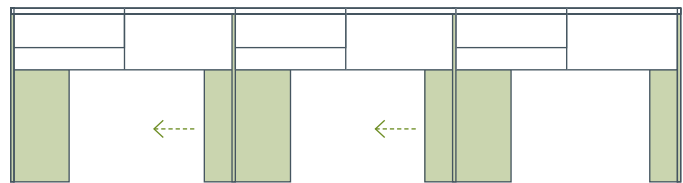

Adept's off-module planning option, along with non-handed and reversible components, let you change office configurations without disturbing the spine wall. Desking units can be moved along the spine and offices finished with storage, worksurface supports, or dividers at the ends. When your headcount changes, it's easy to change your office count, too.

There's no need to disrupt the spine to accommodate more staff. Simply slide Adept desking units into new positions, add another desking unit and overhead storage cabinet...

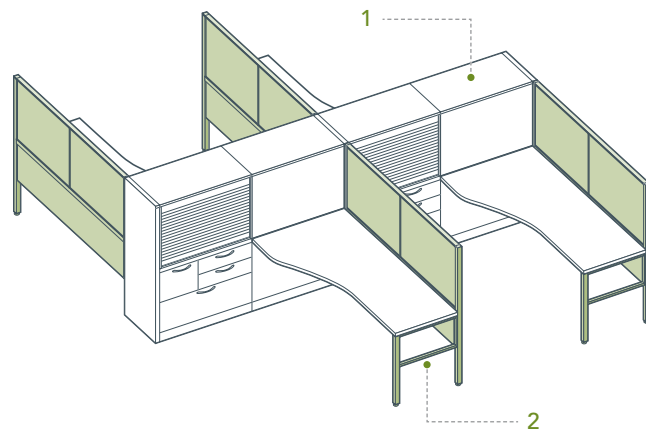

...and three offices become four. Moves, adds, and changes are simpler to manage.

Use Reach as the spine and get more efficient storage in a smaller footprint.

1. Maximize your storage, minimize your footprint, and keep the feeling light and airy with a space-efficient Reach storage wall as the spine.
2. Slender worksurface supports and dividers make offices and people more accessible.

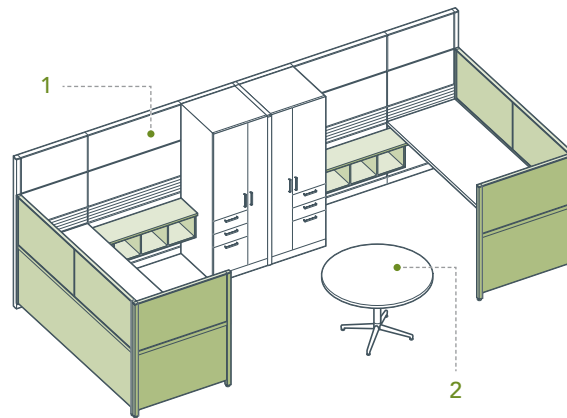

Half-height modesty panels provide privacy below the worksurface, while keeping the feeling modern and open.

Overhead cabinets, shelves, and mobile pedestals from Allsteel's storage offering complete your Adept office.

With non-handed end dividers, no additional connectors or parts are required to reconfigure. It's just one more way Adept saves you time and money.

Plan your Adept offices at panel connections...

- Modular planning lets you organize offices at pre-determined panel widths.
- For extra privacy, utilize full-height dividers connected to the spine wall.
- Integrate most any Allsteel worksurface, including curvilinear shapes.

...or with off-modular desking units.

- Create offices of any size, using desking units anywhere along the spine.
- Make moves, adds, and changes without disrupting the spine wall.
- No connectors mean no dimension is added to the spine wall.

With desk-based Adept, you can position desking units in alignment with overhead storage.

Off-modular desking allows you to set up offices of any size, not just where panels connect.

Adept coordinates with Allsteel storage components. All finishes and pulls are complementary for complete aesthetic cohesion.

Adept

Adept dividers, desking, and storage provide a light-scale solution for individual and collaborative work areas. Adept creates a fresh, modern aesthetic whether used as part of a new specification or to update existing systems furniture. It's all part of Allsteel's commitment to ongoing workspace innovation that offers increased functionality as well as design and planning freedom.
