DAVIS Environmental Policy

Davis guides its journey toward sustainability by using a Triple Bottom Line approach that seeks economic vitality, environmental integrity and social responsibility. We will design and manufacture our products by using environmentally safe practices that encompass life cycle thinking through our Design for the Environment protocol. We are committed to meeting or exceeding compliance with environmental laws and regulations that affect our operations through continuous improvement and pollution prevention practices. Davis' energy policy encourages the minimization of its greenhouse gas and carbon footprint through the implementation of energy conservation and efficiency improvements at its facilities. Our goal is to reduce impacts to human and ecosystem health by inventory tracking, evaluation and control of chemicals of concern in our products, processes and facilities. To help drive our success, we will establish environmental objectives and targets and review our progress in achieving these goals on a routine basis. Davis commits to openly communicating its environmental policy to help inform stakeholders about its environmental values.
